India's IT exports to Africa cross US$1bn mark

Africa is increasingly becoming an important information technology (IT) export market for India after total computer software and services exports to the continent crossed the US$1-billion mark last year.

India's Electronics and Computer Software Export Promotion Council (ESC) said in a statement that exports to Africa from India last year totalled US$1.059 billion compared to US$926 million in 2013.
